Situation. By Telegraph to The Times. WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 .- (By the Associated Press.) "The adjournment of this long-to-be-remembered session of Congress brings with it a great sense of relief." Senator Voorhees had been asked by an Associated Press representative for an interview, and it was with the above statement that he began. Continuing, he said: "We met amids the crash of business disasters, bank failures, and all distressful incidents of one of the worst financial panics ever known in this or any other country We adjourn with quiet business circles and a fair degree of restored confidence prevails in all parts of the country. It will, of course, take time for the various business pursuits to fully recover from the overwhelming financial shock and depression which has afflicted the country for the last six months, but the signs of healthy improvement are now visible on every hand, and good omens for the em-ployment of labor cheer us from all quarters."

When requested to state his views about future legislation, the Senator would only say: "Revision of tariff taxation ought now to follow. The regular session is now only thirty days distant. I predict that we will enter upon a solid and lasting career of prosperity for the laboring and producing masses of every section of our beloved Union."

In reply to a question, Senator Voor-nees said: "On the Democratic side of hees said: "On the Democratic side of the chamber, while there are very strong differences of opinion, I do not know of a single unfriendly feeling left by protracted discussion. Neither organization nor personal rela tions have been disturbed. We will take up our work on the tariff and other questions when we meet in De-cember, as if nothing had happened to mar our peace with one another or to impair our strength for public good.

"Our faith in the present able and thoroughly patriotic administration has never been greater than now, and, to my mind, the future wears a bright and promising aspect."

> FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS. EXTRA SESSION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.-(By the Associated Press.) SENATE.—The Senate passed the House joint resolution for final adjournment at 3 o'clock. The resolution was not passed without opposition. Senators Coke, Dolph, Harris, Call, Berry, Mills, Allen and Peffer spoke against adjourning, claiming there was important business which ought to be transacted promptly. Senator Allen declared the Populists were prepared for work. They were in Congress to assist in passing a proper-ariff bill and enacting other needed legislation.

Senator Cockrell said it was futile to attempt to keep a quorum in the Sen-ate till the opening of the regular session. Senator Gray agreed with him. Senator Cullom said he would not yote for the resolution because he believed the majority desired to adjourn and added that if Congress would, be-fore adjourning, announce to the coun-try that it did not intend either to repeal the election law or the tariff law it would be doing a very good piece of Senator Blackburn favored the resolution, which was then passed.

ready to adjourn, the Senate went into executive session. When the Senate opened its doors, Senator Ransom informed the body that the President had no further com-munications to make. The Vice-President then made acknowledgement for for the customary resolution of thanks, and adjourned the Senate in a few words. The adjournment defeated the deficiency bill and other pending meas lanche of bills and reports marking the closing hours of Congress. ment to the World's Fair bill. The resolution providing for the payment of members' clerks out of the miscellaneous fund passed. The House voted a year's salary to the widow of the late House Chaplain Haddaway.

Representative Richardson of Tennessee presented a resolution to pay a per dlem to the session clerks and employees of the House and Senate during addourment.

Mr. Sayers, chairman of the Appro-priations Committee, insisted that the House was entitled to know how much it was voting away. The resolution car-ried—149 to 53.

Mr. Richardson then moved to concur in the Senate amendment to the resolution to pay the session employees during adjournment. The motion re-sulted in a long filibuster, which was interrupted by the demand for regular order, which was a resolution call-ing for adjournment at 3 o'clock. The joint resolution passed by the Senate, extending the time of adjournment to 4:30 p.m., was presented. The vote on the motion to order tellers was announced—143 to 9. Mr. Hutchinson made the point of no quorum. Gen Catchings moved to suspend the rule and adopt the Senate resolution. Mr. Hutchinson, despite the appeals of a hundred members, demanded a second on his motion. All pleading was un-availing, and at 3 o'clock, while the House was dividing on the demand for second, Speaker Crisp arose, and, with a rap of the gavel, declared that, in accordance with the adjournment resolution, the hour of 3 o'clock having arrived, the House stood adjourned sine die. Mr. Hutchinson was the last to filibuster successfully, and all conference reports failed of action.

AFTER THE STATUE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—A morning paper says that the celebrated Montana silver statute arrived tonight at the Grand Central Depot from Chicago. The news that Ada Rehan's counterfeit in silver was en route spread far and wide, and, while passing through the Montezuma Swamp, near Rochester, three highwaymen boarded the train this morning.

The men jumped on the platform and attempted to force the car open where the statue lay. The messenger on the train was about to open the door of the express car, when the engineer prevented him. The robbers, thus baffled, sprang off the train and made no further attempt to steal the statue, which was, to say the least, a very heavy load.

With the statue traveled Vice-President Higgins, ex-Gov. Hauser and W. A. Clarke of the Montana Statue Company.

VIENNA, Nov. 3.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) Fierce fighting in this city tonight was caused by the attempt of Socialists to invade the hall where a meeting of Liberals was being held for the purpose of passing a vote of want of confidence in Dr. Kronawetter, the representative of Vienna in the Reichsrath.

The meeting was originally fixed for Friday last, but was prevented by the action of the Radicals in refusing to allow the Liberals to proceed. Further interference was anticipated tonight, and a strong force of police was on hand. By 7:30 o'clock, the streets leading to the hall were thronged with clamorous mobs of Socialists and worknen intent upon mischief. "Down with the Liberals,"
"Down with the cowardly enemies of the people," and sang the labor song, 'Hed Arbeit."

The mob finally made a charge upon the police, who were badly handled and the commanding inspector knocked down and trampled upon. His men, in trying to rescue him, wielded their sabres right and left with great flerceness. The scene for a time was a fearful one- Both sides fought savagely, and the result was many bloody heads among the mob, while the police were bruised and beaten and their uniforms torn. The fight caused a panic among the people in the vicinity, and houses and shops were closed.

The police telephoned for reinforcements, which soon arrived, and the mob was then driven out of the streets and at last dispersed. Later on it knocked down and trampled upon.

mob was then driven out of the streets and at last dispersed. Later on it gathered in different parts of the city and listened to violent speeches. At 9 o'clock the greatest excitement continued and the police in strong force were engaged in breaking up the different gatherings. Three rioters were arrested, including the man who led the attack.

At 10:30 p.m. the streets were quiet but the Socialists afterward made a demonstration in front of the palace of Archduke Wilhelm, shouting "Long live the republic!" The police made a num-

A Bomb and Cartridges Found Last Wedne day on Westminister Bridge. LONDON, Nov. 3.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) The fact has just been brought to light that on Wednesday two watermen discovered a conical iron bomb, weighing ten pounds, with a fuse screwed into the small end, and a number of large cartridges loaded with bullets, on one of the abutments of Westminster Bridge, on the side next to the House of Commons.

These were taken to Scotland Yard, and the matter was hushed up, but when a rumor of the find got out, the police at first made light of it when questioned, but now admit these implements of death and destruction were connected with a dynamite plot, though connected with a dynamite plot, though they insist that it is one of small im-

The Graphic says that Scotland Yard detectives have traced the shell found on the buttress of Westminster bridge to its late owner, who explains its presence in the place where it was found. The man says that he picked it up on the battlefield after the Franco-Prussian war, and that it has been in his possession up to a day or two ago. He had come to the conclusion that it might be dangerous, and he concluded to get rid of it. He dropped it from Westminster bridge, as he thought, into

A Suit to Reverse Judgment Obtained Against Her on a Note-Signatures Procured Under Duress-Statements of the Opposition.

By Telegraph to The Times. NEW YORK, Nov. 3.-(By the Asso lated Press.) The moving papers of Mrs. Christie Lathrop Gunning, nie of the late Senator Stanford of California, and corroborative affidavits, together with the statement of her ounsel, in the Supreme Court chambers today, developed one of the most remakable cases of cruelty on record.

Judgment on one of the notes for $5000 btained from her by her husband led to today's proceedings. Lawyer Joseph B. Barcus appeared for Mrs. Gunning, and moved that the judgment secured in Connecticut by the Lincoln National Bank of that city, on January 2, 1893, and also at Saratoga, on February 6, 1891, be set aside. Barcus argued that judgment could not be collected, as all of Mrs. Gunning's noney was gone. Supplementary proceedings in the putt were subsequently brought to recover on a note, and Walter P. Butler was ap-pointed receiver of Mrs. Gunning's property. It is to prevent the receiver getting at the legacy of $100,000 left by Leland-Stanford, her uncle, that Law-yer Barcus moved that the judgments be set aside in order to allow his client to come in and defend the suit. Her defense is that the note was obtained while she was under duress and that the bank had been notified before

SHOWS DISPESPECT.

The Petition of a San Diego Firm is Rejected.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—(By the Associated Press.) The Supreme Court today refused a petition for a rehearing in the case of the Story and Isham Commercial Company vs. H. L. Story. The court says: "The petition for a rehearing being disre-spectful to the court, it is ordered that the same be stricken from the files."

The Superior Court of San Diego county rendered judgment in favor of the plaintiff, and the Supreme Court the plaintiff, and the Supreme Court recently reversed this judgment. At-torneys Works & Works of San Diego petitioned for a rehearing, and their disrespect consisted in complaining in the petition that the cases in which they were interested had been decided by only four judges of the Supreme Court, instead of the full court.

The attorneys hint that the decisions of the court are hasty and ill-digested, and say the opinion in present cases bears evidence of having been pre-pared without the care and delibera-tion characteristic of the learned judge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(By the Associated Press.) The President to-day issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation: By the President of the United States of America, proclamation: While the American people should every day remember with praise and thanksgiving the divine goodness and mercy which has followed them since their beginning as a nation, it is fitting that on day in each year should be especially devoted to the contemplation of blessings which we have received from the hand of God, and to grateful acknowledgement of His loving kindness.

Therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 30th day of the present month of No-vember, as a day of thanksgiving and praise, to be kept and observed by all the people of our land. On that day, let us forego our ordinary work and employments, and assemble in our usual places of worship, where we may recall all that God has done for us, and where, from grateful hearts, our united tribute of praise and song may reach the throne of grace. Let the re-union of kindred and the social meetof friends lend cheer and enjoyment to duty, and let the generous gifts of charity for the relief of the poor and needy prove the sincerity of our thanksgiving (Signed) GROVER CLEVELAND.

Rev. Wight's Position

Rev. Wight's Position.

Rev. Frank A. Wight called at The Times office last evening to make a statement in regard to his relations with the Central Christian Church. He claimed that the resolutions, as published yesterday morning, were never adopted by the church, as no affirmative vote was taken. He furthermore said that one of the leading members who was present at the meeting when the resolutions were read, told him that there would not have been more than five votes for the resolutions if a vote had been taken. He furthermore claims that there was not an affirmative vote in favor of withdrawing fellowship cast by any member of the Central Church; that the resolutions were simply read, and, in reference to withdrawal, it was stated that if there was any one present who had any reason why fellowship should not be withdrawn, they might give it. As to the resolutions themselves, Mr. Wight denies that he was forced to resign, but gave up the pastorate of his own choice to return to Ohio, where he was called by the dangerous illness of his father. He further says that he is willing to have any charges against him investigated, if the church will go shout it in a legal manner.

Moorish Women.

Those of the Moorish girls whose faces I saw, a correspondedt writes, were distinctly handsome. They were the women Benjamin Constant paints in his pictures of Algiers, and about whom pierre I pull goes into persection in his Pierre Loti goes into ecstacies in his book on Tangier. Their robe or cloak, or whatever the thing is they affect, covers the head like a hood, and with covers the head like a hood, and with ene hand they hold one of its folds in front of the face as high as their eyes. They say the young men of Tangler can tell whether or not a girl is pretty by looking at her feet. It is true that their feet are bare, but it struck me as being a somewhat reckless test for selecting a bride.

GOLD.

Africa, Golden Africa, Its, Mines and The

(New York Sun:) A British mer-chant, William Walker of London, who recently made a trip through the gold-producing regions of Southern Africa, has sent from there to a friend in New York a letter which contains some in-teresting information on the subject. In this letter, which was written from the new African city of Johannesburg, he says: "At the present time Johan-nesburg sends out monthly 110,000 ounces of pure gold, valued roughly at $2,000,000, and I can say that the day is not distant when that amount will b doubled, for it is already in sight. It is certain also that Mashonaland, Zulu-land, Swaziland and other parts of the Transvaal will soon be sending out their golden treasures. Here is a coun-try which gives abundant evidence that it contains vast stores of the precious metal. Many new and rich reefs have metal. Many new and rich reefs have been discovered this year, and, while I am writing, I hear a report that would draw me to Zululand if I were anyway interested in the mines. The supply of gold needed by mankind can come only from Southern Africa. All the other gold fields of the world are well known. I could go on for hours about this assect of the constitution if It were not the pect of the question if it were not that I fear your patience would thus be tried.
Africa, golden Africa, is marching steadily onward to the rescue of the Insteadily onward to the rescue of the Indian rupee, and every hundred thousand ounces of pure, new gold sent out from Johannesburg is just one nail the less in the coffin of poor old silver. The dividends alone paid to the British owners of the mines last year amounted to over $6,000,000. I have visited one mine which has a subscribed wapital of $12. which has a subscribed sapital of $12,-750,000, but I cannot tell you much about what I saw. By the help of candles we traced distinctly the line of wald heaving quarter along the weather the same of the same o gold-bearing quartz along the reef. It looked like so many flints or pebbles thrown hap-hazard into cement, form-ing a kind of concrete. At some places the line was only ten inches wide, while at others it was two feet. An expert gives it as his opinion that the reefs in worked for thirty years; but he added that he could give no opinion about the additional treasures hidden in the earth of this part of Africa. In driving about to see some of the mines near Johannes burg I heard everywhere the incessant roar of the batteries which go on day and night crushing, punching and pul-verizing the gold-bearing quartz. For all these operations there is an abun-dance of British capital, and foreign investors would find it hard to use their capital advantageously here."

Mr. Walker says that the managers of the mines prefer native labor, and do all that they can to retain it. He adds: "As the matter stands at present the Zulu laborer gets so much money that in a few months, he would be rich that, in a few months, he would be ric if his savings were not reduced by his expenditures for liquor, the use of which is encouraged by the government be-cause of the revenue derived from it, and by the mine managers, who, by keeping the laborers in poverty are able to secure their services for a greater length of time. An ordinary Zulu can earn $3 or $4 a week besides his rations in mining, but he spends all he earns, and so is chained to the mines. There are large interests bound up in the liquor traffic here."

Mr. Walker tells in his letter of an interview he had with Hon. Cecil Rhodes, the premier of Cape Colony. Mr. Rhodes firmly believes that the ancient Phoenicians searched for the gold of Mashonaland, and he thinks that this theory cannot be doubted by anybody theory cannot be doubted by anybody who examines the old gold workings there. "Mr. Rhodes holds the Zymabibi ruins are of Phoenician origin, that Solomon's mines were among those ruins, and that it was to this part of Africa that Hiram, King of Tyre, came with his navy from the Red Sea (I Kings, ix., 27-28.) After hearing Mr. Rhodes I can come to no other conclusion than that Mashonaland is the true Land of

Ophir.'

Mr. Walker speaks in his letter of the wonderful African city of Johannes-burg, "which has grown within seven years to be a large city. It is perhaps destined to be the largest of South Afican cities, as it is already the center of the greatest gold fields in the world." Walker was not aware wrote this letter that a body of California miners were preparing for an expedition to the gold fields of South Africa. Sam Connors, an old California miner who recently went to Johannesburg, has written back to his friends that he believes the prospective wealth of the South African gold fields to be enormous.

The statements made by Mr. Walker and Mr. Connors are evidently those of men who are not destitute of enthusiasm for the new country. It is a coun-try, however, rather for British capi-talists and Zuli laborers than for American speculators and miners.

Will Visit the Roosters (San Diegan-Sun:) The Roosters of Los Angeles have invited the members of the Cactus Club, with their lady friends, to visit Los Angeles on Satur-day, November 18. The Cactus Club has already made quite extensive prepa-rations to go, and there are about thirty-five who have so signified their intentions. The California Southern intentions. The California Southern has made a special rate of $3.50 for the round trip, good returning on the following Monday. The club will go in a special car decorated with orange col-

of light at the same distance is likewise doubled.

This enormous intensity of light is obtained by an arrangement of the lenses of the lamp. In the ordinary lamp, the lenses, consisting of a number of rectangular panels, are placed in steps, in such a manner that the source of light occupies the principal focus of each of them. The rays of light then emanate from this part of the apparatus in a horizontal pencil. By reducing the number of panels, the quantity of light received by each is correspondingly increased. At La Heve there are four panels, the total

REMEMBER THE ANNIVERSARIES.

Make Home Life the Ideal Thing That It Ought to Be.

(Chicago Tribune:) The happlest households are those that do not let die out the sentiment connected with various anniversaries. Although gift-giving or recognition of such events in a suitable way may be out of the question, owing to the straightened circumstances of those within the gates, there can yet be a little air of festivity when mother's or father's birthday comes around, or some wedding anniversary to be celebrated. An extra dish, a little bunch of flowers, or some special music prepared for the occasion, will show the kindly spirit and the loving remembrance, that count far more than the moneyed value of any gift. As the children grow up, if these festivals are encouraged, they will have much to look forward to and much more to remember in the years to come, when they go out to do battle with the world and find that sontiment is crushed under foot, and affection is regarded only as a side issue.

Life is full of beauty, if we only know how to gather into our bins and storehouses. There need not be great wealth nor worldly honor, but a loyard interchange of parents and chief cheiding together of parents and chief direct bearing on each one's individual history, will to not, we how to be the old thing that it ought to be.

These treasury notes are to be redeemable in silver coin only, which is a change from the usual form. which requires their redemption in either silver or gold.

Furthermore, it is announced that the silver men will circulate a vast amount of silver literature throughout the country, so that if any of us have failed to get enough to read on the silver question during the past few months, our longings in that direction are now likely to be fully gratified.

There is a well-defined conviction that one of the best partial solutions to increase and maintain the gold reserve, and make it possible for the government to guarantee parity between street should clearly understand, once for all, that the people of this country will no more be content with a single gold standard, than they would be with a single silver standard. Is America still American? is a question which is naturally asked in view of the rapid increase of the foreign element in the United States. The question is an exceedingly interesting ne, and while probably it may yet be answered in the affirmative, the added question naturally intrudes as to how long it will remain so at the present rate of increase of our foreign population.

The figures furnished by the census for the population of this country, under 10 years of age, show that out of total of 15,209,000, about four-fifths, or 12,718,000 were native born whites. Of this number 8,983,000 were born of native parents, and 3,735,000 were born of foreign parents. . If we compare these figures with similar figures for the total population, classed according to native white of native parents and native white of foreign parents, we find that while only 25.1 per cent, of our total native white population is of foreign parents, 29.4 per cent, of those under 10 years of age are of foreign parents. On the face of this, it would indicate that our native white populaion is rapidly changing to one of foreign parentage in the first degree.

But the children of foreign parents are, many of them, subjected to more unsanitary surroundings than the chil-Iren of our native white population, so that it is probable that a less proportion of them will survive than children of native parents, and, owing to this, the change may not be so rapid as the above figures would indicate To that extent the disproportion here shown will be neutralized by the rela tive healthfulness of these two elements of our population is an exceedingly interesting problem, and its solution can only be determined upon the additional data to be furnished by the census office.

Another question of vital interest to every byal American is, how much longer can we continue to receive this large influx of foreigners, and be able to assimilate them with our institu-Our free institutions will not live of themselves. They can be kept intact only by the loyalty and devotion of the people. Should the foreign element ultimately predominate in our population, with its large proportion of ignorance, will it become sufficiently Americanized to appreciate, as their children, the inestimable blessings of free government a government of the people, and by the people, and for the people," and adhere, courageously, to the declaration that it

Six Months' Extension

After much wild talk and threats of determined opposition, the bill providing for an extension for six months of the provisions of the Geary act has ome a law, and has been signed by the President. There was little or no opposition at the end, even from the Pacific Coast representatives, including the author of the bill himself. In the House all the California mem-Loud, voted for amended bill. All told, there were but nine votes against the bill in the lower

The Times has maintained from the commencement of this controversy that the proper course to pursue was first to take advantage of the law by deporting as many highbinders as possible, and then to extend the term, ir order to give those a chance to register who had been deceived by the representations of the Six Companies San Francisco and their American attorneys, to whom they had looked for nstructions. The Geary act was not intended to drive out those Chinamen who are here, but to prevent more from coming in.

A great howl went up from certain quarters when The Times took this ground, but we note that, as above mentioned, there was little, if any, objection to the extension clause, even from the author of the Geary which proves what we have all along stated, that the views of The Times were those of nine-tenths of the just and enlightened citizens of the Pacific Coast, and of ninety-nine hundredths of the people of the whole country.

There is one point upon which Times was at variance with those who framed the bill which has just passed. We maintained that three months would be a sufficient time to allow those Chinamen who had failed to do so to obey the law, and suggested that a small fine would be in order, to teach them that they must look to Washington, and not to San Francisco, for their orders.

However, the law as now amended neets the necessities of the case substantially, and the era of hoodlum violence and irregular attempts at enforcement will be deferred, and, it is hoped, indefinitely postponed. amended bill has retrieved the American name and averted a permanent stain upon the American escutcheon,

In a country like the United States is loes not seem that starving communities of men and women and little children, without shelter, without food, and with no means of earning their daily bread, should be a possible thing to onfront our nineteenth century civil-Yet, upon the verge of winter, we find in the Cherokee Strip, where the mad rush of immigration was so recently made, hundreds of people destitute and with no roof but the star-lit sky above them. Without money eless and landless, with the frosts and snows of winter confronting them, they have the startling problem before ist during the coming winter. Their families must be cared for, their children fed and sheltered, and God only knows how it can be done. It is estimated that fully fifteen thousand peo ple failed to secure anything in the wild rush for lands. A large proportion of these disappointed ones have returned to the places from which they came, or to older settlements, wiser fo the lesson that they have learned, but many are left without means to ge back to their old homes, their only wealth the horses and wagons that cor veyed them into the wilderness into which they have entered. The outlool for these is a desperate one, and it is such situations as this that bring the criminal instincts in men to the surface. Want and starvation are pitiless taskmasters, and men need to be hones through and through to resist the temptation to relieve their necessities did the founders of the Republic and crimes are numerous within the limits of this newly-settled strip, and the conditions which confront the settlers are not such as are conducive to the greatest sense of security, either to life or property.

It has been very strongly asserted that "the Cleveland panic has brought more disaster in the country in six lumbine is almost universally becoming, and, if it does not suit you set straight, you may wear it a little to one side. If the brim turned up quickly from your forehead does not blease, turn the hat about so one of the corners comes at the front. If it won't do in one color, you may try it in another, and it may be bigger or smaller, to please you. Besides. somehow, though much worn, months than the Sherman act could have done in sixty years." Our great Republican rule, and the magnificent national credit built up under a gen eration of Republican statesmanship ed away by glittering promises of re form, and deceived by false hopes, voters of every class helped to swell the Democratic majority, until the whole machinery of the national government was in the hands of the party. And, since its ascendancy, what has it achieved? Nothing but disaster. The wheels of every industry throughout the land have been blocked. Timidity has seized upon capital. great army of industrious bread-winners has been thrown out of employment; and the great object-lesson be fore the country today is the incapacity one thing that the Cleveland administration has fully demonstrated, beyond a question of doubt.

The circular issued by John Redmond in which he attempts to explain the action of himself and his followers in deserting Gladstone, is a very weak document. He says the Parnellites are willing to support the Liberals as long as they remain true to their pledges in regard to Ireland. He further says that his followers intend to make the government understand that its existence depended on Trish therefor is adherence to those pledges The public are justified in coming the conclusion that Mr. Redmond is actuated either by personal ambition or spite, rather than by concern for the welfare of his native country, otherwise he would certainly not attempt to embarrass the great English statesman, who has done so much for Ireland at a moment when the foes of Ireland, within and without, are pressing him so hard, and when he is so greatly in need of support. Surely, at such a time as this, Gladstone is justified in saying that those who are not with him are against him—and

The Mon Ah Cou Case Taken Under Advisement.

The New Law and Its Stringent Provision Full Text of the Amendments Added by the Pacific Coast Representatives.

The Mon Ah Cou case was again be re United States Commissioner Van Dyke yesterday, having been continued from the previous day. The defendant introduced additional testimony, which conclusively proved that he member of the firm of Kim Yeun & Co., the notorious Chinese lottery dealers on Marchessault street. The place now purports to be a drug store, and semblance of respectability, bu formerly the headquarters for Chi nese lottery fiends. One of the members of this same firm has already been before Judge Ross, charged with a vio-lation of the registration clause of the now superseded Geary act, and was ordered deported. Judge Ross would to remember that there are such not recognize the firm as a legitimate one, and, as the evidence plainly showed that more lottery tickets than drugs had been sold in the place, he held that the members of this firm

The contention on the part of the defendant's attorney yesterday was that Mon Ah Cou had been permitted to land on the strength of a merchant's certificate, and that it was too late now for the government to "go behind the returns." The District Attorney claimed that Mon Ah Cou had secured his certificate wrongfully, and, not only was every subsequent act committed on the strength of such possession open to investigation, but also the manner itself in which the certificate was obtained. The case was then submitted and taken under advisement by the commissioner. The contention on the part of the detion: "I BREAK THEM WHO WOULD The conduct of a certain lightweight and "previous" attorney of the Jim-Crow persuasion, who is going about the city seeking indorsements for a ju-dicial vacancy, which death has not yet created, is simply indecent. Dist.-Atty. Denis, Assistant Hannon was seen yesterday, and asked what effect the new McCreary law will have on the cases now pending. Mr. Hannon said that the new law does not grant an extension to such Chinese who have been heretofore convicted of felony, and therefore he felt reasonably certain that the notorious Lem You would be ordered deported as soon as Judge Ross returned from San Francisco. As to the Verdugo Chinamen, they were arrested for having illegally entered the United States after the passage of the exclusion act of 1852, and, therefore, do not come under the provisions of the new measure. Arrests under the Geary act, will, of course, now cease, until April 3, 1894, when the new extension of time expires. Known criminals, or rather those that have heretofore been convicted of felony in any court in the United States, are, however, still subject to the deportation section of the Geary act, and will be apprehended wherever found. Such persons are now denied the privilege of registering, and will be promptly deported.

STANTON W. R. C. FAIR.

The general rule is that hats have either no crowns or very high ones. Crowns are still bound with a band of ribbon that stands much higher than the crown. Very severe and stiff felt hats, somewhat reminiscent of the derby, are shown for wear with severe tailor-made gowns. If the gown is simple in coloring, and dark, the hat may show all the colors of the rainbow and of half the vegetable and most of the mineral world in its construction. If, however, the gown is highly colored, the hat must either match or be black. This is a safe rule. It is still customary to have a hat for each gown, but the hat often does not seem, in any way, to go with the gown except by caprice. Finally Closed After Four Days of Gratifying Stanton W.R.C. Last evening's literary entertainment was to have been under direction of Mrs. Hopkinson, but illness prevented her taking charge. By request, "The Jacobites," played Wednesday evening, was repeated, and Mrs, Morfoot sang a pleasing solo. The hall was well filled. The fair closed with dancing, particlepated in by a large number.

The excitement of the evening was the raffling of a variety of articles in which chances had been taken. The comforter, a patriotic affair, with a Union flag tied in on a white ground, was won by Gilbert Smith. The Times souvenir spoon, bearing a true-to-life eagle represented in its bowl, became the property of Mrs. Lydia R. Willard, who was also lucky enough to win a handsome apron earlier in the day. Several other articles were disposed of in like manner.

SOCIAL RECORD. IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

One of the beautiful November recep tions occurred yesterday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock, at No. 221 South Olive street. It was given by Mrs. O. T. Johnson, who, in company with her husband, has just returned from an extended trip East, much of the time dur ing the past four months having been spent in the vicinity of Chicago and ing the past four months having been spent in the vicinity of Chicago and Boston. Its purpose was to introduce Mrs. Fred J. Johnson, and their friends, Mrs. Charles E. Kregele and daughter and Mrs. Bingham, from Indianapolis, Ind., who have recently come to make their home in our midst.

Mrs. Johnson was also assisted in receiving by Mrs. William Herriott, Mrs. Dr. Chichester, Mrs. Fannie Shoemaker and Mrs. Dr. Salisbury.

About seventy friends enjoyed the hospitalities of the charming home, all of whom united in pronouncing the reception one of the happiest events of its ception one of the happiest events of its kind. The handsome apartments were kind. The handsome apartments wererendered more attractive by many roses, bouquets of chrysanthemums and carnations intermingled, and the skillful use of ivy and smilax. Music was furnished by Sig. Dion Romandy's orchestra, and was highly complimented by the guests. Mrs. O. T. Johnson was richly attired in black lace over lavender satin, while her daughter presented a bright contrast in a toilette of pink crepe, her ornaments being diamonds.

As usual, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Sr., will alternate for the winter between the gayety of Los Angeles and their country home at Riverside.

THE WALNUT-GROWERS.

They are Well Satisfied With Their Recent Sales.

A communication has been received from Messrs. Dorman, Montgomery and Gooch, representing the Los Nietos and Ranchito Walnut-growers' Association, taking issue with a correspondent who, in writing of the recent sale of walnuts, criticised the methods of the pur-chasers, claiming that much time was lost in useless red tape, and that the agent was late in putting in an appearance. The gentlemen say that such was not the case: that the agent arrived on the first train, and that the whole transcation.

"Two of the representatives of our selling agents were on hand, and worked hard and unceasingly all day to receive, weigh and ship the enormous quantity of walnuts that were presented. As to 'slow coach methods' and 'red tape,' we will say that only those methods approved and adopted by the association have been used, and they are such as are necessary to secure correctness of weight and count, and uniformity of quality and grading.

"The association delivered and shipped nine carloads of walnuts on the day mentioned—nothing 'slow coach' about that—and the money for them was placed to the credit of the association in the bank within a few hours. If that is 'red tape,' give us lots of it.

"The agents of the association this year are the following well-known firms: Messrs. Thacker Bros., Messrs. Porter Bros. & Co., and W. R. Strong Company, and the association desires to say that so far the deal with its agents has been, in all respects satisfactory. These certificates will be worth the amount stated on their face in the way of exchange in the matter of traffic on the road. He received the idea from a number of ranch-owners, who suggest that they are willing to furnish teams and work, taking one-half in mency and the rest in certificates. They did not all like the old idea of simply holding stock that would bring them in at some time an uncertain dividend, but they wanted to have something that could be used as an interchangeable commodity. The certificates will be printed on heavy, fine linen paper, and in black and green ink, similar in shape and size to the old greenback döllar.

There was a real, sure-enough fight out near Agricultural Park yesterday morning, but, in view of the fact that such exhibitions are not exactly fos-tered by law, but a small-sized audience was in attendance to cheer on the festive pugs in their fistic efforts.

There is a quiet spot some little distance this side of the park grounds, where passers by are not numerous, and here a ring was improvised and the mill carried to a finish.

"This Oregon fighter came around last night, and swore that he could whip me. He said that he had good backing, but I found that he did not. However, he did offer to fight for $35, and, as he secured that amount, I consented.

"We went out early this morning, about 7 o'clock, to a place near the racetrack, and fixed up a ring. There were only five or six of our friends present, and the fight was finished in seven rounds.

"We started in by shaking hands, when, everything being ready, he made a rush and missed. He came up again, when I got him on the jaw and knocked him down. I gave him a right and left again, and floored him.

"On the second round, I again landed a right and left, and he got in one on my neck. I collared him again on the side, and he put in a good one on my chest at the close.

"He came in and rushed on the third round, getting in one on the stomach, and I followed him up with a right blow and knocked him down three times in succession.

"The fourth and fifth rounds were not exciting, being devoted entirely to sparring.

the terms of the wager, and conditions under which the young men are touring:

"A month ago a small gathering of Chicago reporters and sporting men were discussing the ability of reporters to 'work their faces,' and Messrs Sydney and Payne said a reporter who could not was not a reporter. They offered to prove it for $5000, and a prominent sport backed them. Money was put up, the permission of the employing paper secured, and on the 20th of last month the two scribs began their journey under an agreement which permitted each of them to leave Chicago with a good suit of clothes in his grip and 1 cent in his pocket, which he was to have when the trip was over. They were not to use the name of the paper that employed them, and were not to do any manner of work in order to earn money with which to pay their passage or lodging during 100 days, in which time they were to travel not less than six thousand miles."

They have not violated their agreement yet, and are making their way along without railroad passes or other paper usually considered necessary to "dead-head" traveling. They were corded the freedom and hospitality of a down-town hotel last night, and expect to continue their journey toward San Francisco and thence back to Chicago, this evening.

Crops and Markets.

The deciduous fruit crop is being cleared up, and growers find considerable difficulty in obtaining good prices for their product. Owing to the cool weather, the raisin crop has been curing slowly, and a large quantity of the first crop remains upon the vines.

There is little improvement in prunes, although a rise is expected before long. At present, quotations must be considered as nominal, running from 4% to 5 cents per pound.

During the week there has been a movelty on the Los Angeles market in the shape of Concord grapes from New Nork. They are shipped in small basntaining about eight pounds, and retail at 10 cents a pound. Many Eastern people now living in Los Angeles have bought these grapes for the sake have bought these grapes for the sake of bil times, and some Californians profess to enjoy their peculiar "foxyl" fornia material to make a display that of old times, and some Californians pro-fess to enjoy their peculiar "foxy!" fornia material to make a display that flavor, but it is scarcely probable that will be far ahead of anything from other sections of the State. We have why such grapes should be imported from the most of the better Eastern varieties are grown in this State.

The attention of growers is now directed to the coming orange crop, concerning the extent of which, opinions One local railroad man estimates it at 7500 carloads. The crop of last season was estimated at 6600 carloads, and that of 1891-2 at 2800 carloads. The orange-growers are preparing for the season's campaign. Early shipments of Florida oranges to England have proved successful this season, as far as the prices received The English market is accustomed to immature fruit, such as that which is now being shipped from Florida.

There has been some improvement in the wheat market, but barley is still going a-begging. Advices from Argen-tine Republic announce that there will be 38,000,000 bushels of wheat for ex-

This is doing pretty, well for a country which only exported 2,000,000 bushels in 1889, and the significance of the increase is augmented by the fact that only about one-hundredth part of the arable area of the confederation is under plow. Almost every acre of the Argentine country, from the Atlantic to the slope of the Andes, and from Paraguay to Patagonia will grow Paraguay to Patagonia will grow wheat. Nothing is required but labor.

The Era of Production.

For many years we have been complaining that California imports too many products from the East-that our imports are altogether out of proportion to the exports. a great improvement in this direction during the past couple of years. Especially is this the case at present. Up to the present date this season

4544 carlbads of California products have been moved east to Ogden, Mojave and El Paso, as against 3218 carloads last year This great increase is regarded by railroad men as indicating the ratio at which California's articles export are receiving recognition abroad.

Immense as is the increase of east-ound traffic in the foregoing figures, it will be still more augmented before the close of the season. At this time last year the shipping season had almost come to an end, whereas today it is estimated that there are at least thirty-five hundred carloads of marketable commodities yet to be transported to our neighbors on the other side of the Rocky Mountams, a quantity larger the Rocky Mountains, a quantity larger than the total of last year's output.

At this rate of increase it is not easy to over-estimate the possibilities of our export trade within the next few years. We are now beginning to hear from the thousands of orchards which have been set out during the past five years. It is not only fruit that is being exported. Texas, Colorado and other States now buy California potatoes by the trainload. Beans are now sent by the trainload. Beans are now sent by the trainload to Eastern cities, even penetrating as far as Boston. In Southern California there will be a surplus of peanuts this fall and a few carloads will be sent out among the orange trains that will soon begin to leave for the East. It may be that this will soon develop into an Industry of considerable importance.

Altogother, the outlook for California as a productive State has never begun to be anything like so favorable as it is at present. It will soon be a ques-tion of the capacity of the railroads to handle this immense amount of pro-duce. The great problem for the farm-ers will soon be how to market their Fertilizing for Wheat.

The Pacific Rural Press has been taking up the subject of fertilization, which has been frequently referred to in these columns of late. The Press in these columns of late. The Press claims that even wheat-growing will have to be carried on by means of fer-tilization. Of course, this means that big wheat ranches will have to be suceded by smaller farms, on which shall be practiced intensive culture. In regard to the best method of fertilizing for wheat our contemporary says:

for wheat our contemporary says:

"The proper use of fertilizers on wheat in this dry climate, and especially on light, loose soil, cannot be learned in a year, and this is the reason why the beginning of field experimentation should not be longer delayed. It is perfectly demonstrable that the soil needs restoration to the old heart and strength which gave the grand returns of pioneer days, but now to make such returns is the point to be ascertained. Every thinking wheat-grower should give such attention to this subject as his time and means will allow. He should try different manures on small pleces, convenient for observation, and watch the result. From such tests, in connection with notes on the character of the season, he can get hints of the next steps to take. It would not be difficult for neighboring farmers to co-operate in tests of this kind, and in the consideration of the results. Such undertakings would prob ably command the interest of our fer-tilizer dealers, and they would give all the help in their power in selecting the materials most suitable for trial."

To old-time California wheat-growers, the idea of growing wheat with the aid of fertilizers will 'of course, appear absurd, but it has either got to come to that in time, or else wheat-raising will have to be abandoned in the older tions of the State. The soil of California is remarkably fertile, but it will not continue to raise profitable crops forever without fertilizing. That is asking too much of it.

Fruit-growers and the Midwinter Fair. It is announced that the Southern California Midwinter Fair Committee is now well satisfied with the location which has been given to this section for a building. Now let us all go to work and do our best to make the exhibit a success. It will depend greatly on individual effort. If every citizen in Southern California will constitute himself a committee of one on the question, other sections of the State. We have proved this at Chicago, with the result that Southern California is now for better known in the East than all the rest of the State tegether.

This is not the time to become weary in well-doing. Let us persevere in the same line and we cannot fail to reap a rich reward. For more than one reason we ought to be able to make a display in San Francisco that will eclinse that which we had at Chicago. tance and the consequent expense of making exhibits is much smaller in this case, and then again, the Midwinter Fair will be held right in the heart of the citrus season, when Southern Cali-fornia will show products that no other part of the United States can touch The orange-growers of Southern Cali-fornia are now organizing to improve the market for their product. They cannot do anything that will assist them more in this direction than by combining to make a grand exhibit of the finest citrus fruit in San Francisco. The Northern Citrus Belt, of which we read so much, will be on hand, and will do its best to convince new arrivals from the East that they can grow oranges up there that are as good and earlier than ours, on land that costs ne-fourth as much. It will not do to let that impression get abroad. We know, of course, that it is only true to a very limited extent, but Eastern people, who come here knowing very little about California, may be easily deceived by such glittering attractions. Many of the orange-growers, especially owners of the older and more profitable groves around Riverside do hesitate to say that they have no terest in making such displays and bringing more people to Southern California to compete in growing oranges and overstocking the market. We believe there is little danger of overdoing the market for choice oranges, as soon as provision is made to properly reach the markets of the country, and espe-cially when rates of freight are further reduced, so that the fruit can be placed in the hands of the consumers at a price that will permit everybody to in dulge, at least occasionally, in the luxury of a few California oranges. Another point to be considered is that it by no means follows that all those people who are attracted to Southern Cal-ifornia by a citrus exhibit will go into s of raising oranges. tht busines of them will plant deciduous fruits. others sugar beets, others vegetables, while still others will invest in real estate or go into business. Orange growing is only one of the many profitable ndustries which may be carried on Southern California, but there is a glamer and romance about the golden orange which has, perhaps, done more to bring settlers to Southern California than any other one attraction. It is the fact that the orange can be sucessfully raised in Southern California that has attracted so many people to this section, rather than to the northern part of the State, for which reason, we repeat, it will not do for us to let visitors to the Midwinter Fair get the impression that citrus fruits can be raised equally as well in the northern portion of the State. Of course, if this were true, a man would indeed be very ish to pay from $250 to $400 for citrus land when he can get the same thing up north at about one-tenth of that price. The very fact that there is such a diference in the price of this land should teach these people that there must be a difference in its value. Our experienced orange-growers are not fools, and if such bargains were to be had they ould certainly not hesitate to their bearing groves in the south for $1000 an acre or more, which they could easily do, and with the proceeds of each acre purchase twenty to forty acres of citrus land up north, which they could transform within five years into bearing groves. The facts as we know them, are that along the foothills of the Sierra Nevada, in the central and orthern part of the State, there are here and there sheltered localities where the orange may be profitably grown on a commercial scale, and that those raised there mature a little earlier than in Southern California, but that there is any large area of country north of the Tehachepi where this car be done is not true, which those who purchase land up there on the strength of such assertions will discover to their cost. These facts can only be discovered by an investigation. It is easy to make a fine citrus display from a limited number of trees, and the Northern Citrus Belt will undoubtedly do its bes in this direction.. In fact, our northern neighbors are so bold as to chal-lenge this end of the State to a competition at the fair, and talk of putting

earned. We are too apt to take it for granted that facts which are well known to us are patent to everybody on case as any one who reads the letters of inquiry which come from the East may clearly discover.

Even granting that there is some 'statement of orange growers that they are not interested in dvertising the profits of their industry, the same cannot certainly be said of our land-owners and real estate-agents. These people should leave no stone unturned to make the Midwinter Fair a grand success, for it is they who reap the earliest and most direct benefits, through the immigration to Southern California which a fine display from this section at the fair will certainly In fact, it is not to much induce. to say that it would well repay the land-owners of Southern California to bear the entire expense of our exhibit at the Midwinter Fair. This they are at the Midwinter Fair. This they are not asked to do, but they should see to it that their subscriptions are in proportion to the benefits which will undoubtedly accrue to them from such a display as this section is well able to make, and, which we, in common with all other well-wishers of Southern California, trust that it will make.

The Riverside Fruit Exchange The recently organized Riverside Fruit Exchange, which includes upward of 95 per cent. of the orangegrowers of that section has elected to the position of general secretary, W. A. Perry, who for several years represented the Southern Pacific Rail-Company in that city; later was Santa Fe, and afterward with with the large fruit-shipping concerns of Strong & Co. and the Earl Fruit Company. For the last two years, Mr. has managed the great fruit ranches of A. T. Hatch, in Northern California, and is, perhaps, as widely known to the fruit-handling institutions of the country as any man in His position of general ceretary makes him practically manager of the exchange, although the nominal management is in the hands a strong executive committee. In another column we print an interesting letter on the subject of slik from Mrs. Carrie Williams of San Diego, who is a member of State Board of Silk Culture, and is an enthusiast on the subject. Nurserymen --- Mr. Sherer Returns to the Question. VERDUGO, Nov. 1, 1893.—(To the Editor of The Times.) Every fruit-grower should rejoice that the question of the reliability of nurserymen is beng agitated in The Times. Thousands of dollars in damages has resulted to owers in years past, in Southern Calitornia, from the fact that trees and vines, sold to them for a certain variety, have proved to be other than represented; and it is certainly time that the carelessness shown by a great many dealers in nursery stock should be seriously rebuked, and better methods forced upon them.

It is scarcely worth while to call dealers. fornia, from the fact that trees and

It is scarcely worth while to call dealers of this kind dishonest, or apply other epithets to them, whether deserved or otherwise. It is not so much a question of ethics as it is a matter of business. The communications from Messrs. Darby and Caldwell, in your last Saturday's issue, throw light upon a too-commonly practiced method of carrying on the nursery business, which, as it emanates from men who are in the nursery business, requires no comment from me.

THE PALMS, Oct. 31, 1893 .- (To the Editor of The Times.) We are continually reminded through the various papers and magazines (the Rural Californian seeming to take the lead) of length of time, much to the disgust of the well-wishers of horticulture, nothing satisfactory has been accomplished, save an increased lack of confidence in the State board by those who naturally look to them for information.

The continued attacks of certain men in Southern California against the State board, and the manner in which the board has antagonized Southern California, has not been productive of any great good to the interests of horticulture in this State, and it is high time that something was done to overcome the estrangement that has arisen.

"A word to the wise is sufficient," May the time speedily come when the energy and time that has hitherto been devoted almost exclusively to antagonizing the State board and our own horticultural commissioner be used in a united effort to rid our country of the laterious insents that are prev-

Siik Culture.

After two years' hard work and intel-ligent experimenting in various ways, I now feel prepared to make some statements as to sericulture, which may prove of real interest to the citizens of ments as to sericulture, which may prove of real interest to the citizens of Southern California.

When I first began my series of experiments I thought it possible to obtain two crops of silk each year. (Most countries from which we' import silk produce but one crop a year.)

From February 6, 1893, to October 7, 1893, inclusive, I have produced seven crops of cocoons from said worms. The first seemed as large and fine as the middle hatches, and the last just as strong and vigorous as either of the preceding. One notable feature I must mention is that, during the entire time referred to, no artificial heat was used at night, the thermometer ranging from 48 to 75 degs. Fahr. The only perceptible difference varying temperature seemed to make was that it prolonged the life of the worm about ten days. This applies only to the February and March worms. The other months they were on time to the day in every moult. These facts are very telling as to our climate and no less do they demonstrate the great possibilities yet to be attained in Southern California. No country in the world offers greater inducements to the capitalist to invest his wealth in our broad acres, and let flow to them the well-directed streams from our numerous water systems. All branches of the mulberry family grow and flourish.

in our broad acres, and let flow to them the well-directed streams from our numerous water systems. All branches of the mulberry family grow and flourish. An acre of four-year-old mulberry trees will yield 9000 to 11,000 pounds of leaves the first picking, and, by careful management and alternating the trees, so as not to pick all bare at the same time, trees will yield three pickings of leaves. An acre of trees will supply food from one picking for six and one-half ounces of eggs, or worms that would be about two hundred and sixty thousand. If these are given to breeding, instead of to silk, the figures will be about as follows: Say, half males; then 130,000 females. The female lays from 350 to 600 eggs, in about three days; 350 times 130,000 equals 45,500,000, divided by 40,000 equals 1337½ ounces of eggs, at $4 per ounce, which is a low figure, and you have $4530 from one trop. The reeled silk is not so profitable, but it will bring handsome Today, all European and Asiatic

Today, all European and Asiatio countries are more or less affected by silk-worm disease, and this is the golden opportunity for Southern Cali-fornia to arise and testify to the perfect healthfulness of her climate in producing silk-worms absolutely free from disease of any kind. Our silk exhibit at the World's Fair has attracted attention from all parts of the world. I have just shipped all of the world. I have just shipped all the eggs I could spare to Syria, and have still a call from Italy.

The coming Midwinter Fair should be made the grand medium through which the great possibilities of the silk industry in Southern California may be brought before the minds of foreign capitalists. The field is almost boundless. The investment is safe, and the prefits much larger than in ordithe profits much larger than in ordi horticulture

CARRIE WILLIAMS. A High Climber

HIGHLANDS, Oct. 31 .- (To the Agricultural Editor of The Times.) Bristol, of the Wayup Rancho, East Highlands, has growing on his house a vine, which, for rapidity of growth vine, which, for rapidity of growth and striking beauty, is probably not surpassed. Its botanical name is pilogyne suaviz, and it seems to have no common appellation save pilogyne (pronounced pi-lo-jee-ny.) It is an evergreen perennial, and is now 2 years old. Since March 1 it has covered a space equivalent to 400 square feet, with a dense mass of glossy, green follage, thickly interspersed with small, star-shaped, cream-colored blossoms which give forth a delicate and very pleasant fragrance. a delicate and very pleasant fragrance. Its habit of growth is quite distinct from most climbers, in that the new growth spreads in every direction—upward, downward and sideways—part of the shoots reaching out for more trellis to cover, while the others are continually redraping that all already covered even to the ground. The house has the appearance of being clad in an exquisite green ved with a million perfumed nr counties.

During the past ten years, I have purchased in lots of one hundred and over, trees from five of the best known nurserymen and firms in this section. Three out of the five have sold me trees that proved to be other than the varieties codered.

(California Fruit-grower:) A Los Angeles Times correspondent takes a gloomy view of the ethics of the nursery business. He alleges that ten years experience has failed to disclose to him the location of an honest nursery concern in Southern California. This billing the past ten years are proved to be other than the varieties of the control of the past ten years. the location of an honest nursery con-cern in Southern California. This bil-ious fellow-citizen is certainly ultra in his views so liberally expressed. Of course, there are nurserymen and nur-serymen, as there are honest men and scamps in all callings. Not even are the sacred environs of the pulpit al-ways free from rulls, and some honest ways free from guile, and some honest (?) fruit-growers have often been known to face the boxes with the best think; yet that same dealer, bought stock last season of the firm that I have been most unfortunate in dealing with; so that I feel that from him I escaped by chance. In the other case the trees have not yet fruited and I await the result in fear and trembling, as the same firm sold a large order to one of my neighbors, only a small proportion of which are true to name. It will not answer to assert that mine is an exceptional case. On the contrary I am led to believe, from inquiry among my neighboring orchardists, that my experience in buying trees has just been about average.

The fact is that the demand for nursery stock in this section has always been far in excess of the home-grown supply, especially for deciduous trees; and the majority of our heaviest dealers have not pretended to attempt to grow all that they sell, and many carloads of nursery stock are brought in yearly from the North and East, bought by our dealers in many instances from growers whose methods of growing they have never investigated. Growing stock at home will not cure the evil, but will diminish it somewhat; there will still remain the careless dealer who labels his stock to suit the market, or as he "thinks it ought to be."

Meanwhile the question of "honesty" of nurserymen is not as material as that of their "reliability." There are plenty of honest people who are not reliable; and when a man is chawed up by a bulzz-saw, the fact of the good intentions of the instrument of his undoing is not a particular soluce to him.

A Cry for Harmony.

(California Fruit-grower:) Much talk is indulged in by certain tree-growers and many newspapers in this State to the effect that the olive will thrive and ally reminded through the various bear well almost anywhere, and especially is it often alleged that the incompetency of certain members only another reason why we should put our best foot forward and not sit down upon the laurels which we have already ries—and has cautioned planters against expecting any substantial returns from olive or other orchards so planted and

We do not think any olive-grower in California can show satisfactory profits from an orchard under such conditions; nor do we think any experienced olive-grower would recommend such a course to a beginner.

Perhaps no other man in the State has experimented longer, more d gently, or with better results as rega-the olive for pickles, than Secretary long of the State Board of Horticultu He has made an entire success w He has made an entire success with pickling the ripe olive and also with the production of the fruit for that

Mr. Lelong would not think Mr. Lelong would not think for a moment of attempting to grow olives for pickles on dry land, or on rocky hill-sides and thin soils. For pickles, a large-sized berry, is not only best, but very much the best, and a large berry can be produced only by giving the tree the best of care, including plenty of water. The best results ever obtained by Mr. Lelong were, he says, mainly due to seven irrigations of his olive orchard in one season, commencing in July. One thorough irrigation in August, one in September, two in October and two in November completed the seven irrigations, and the resulting fruit was large and fine, making an excellent article of pickle and commanding a good price. nanding a good price.

A Glut of Apples. (San Francisco Report:) Apples are drug in the market this fall. The imnense crop in every section of the State, together with the unusually small cemand for fruit in the East, is the cause of it. Orchardists are offering their apples at astonishingly low prices and cannot find a market for them even then. There are over twenty thousand boxes ready to come to Marysville from different points in Nevada county, but this year the commission-men shippers are not anxiously seeking apples or eagerly making consignment. From the Honey Lake and Lassen cour try, where some of the finest apples in the world are grown, nearly forty thou-sand boxes now want a market, and much of that supply is being offered to the Marysville commission-men. The price at which it is offered to land the fruit there makes it enter into competi-tion with that grown in Nevada county. The lower grade apples in 50-pour boxes in that section are worth from 40 to 45 cents, while the better varieties will run from 50 to 621/4 cents. is no market for California apples in the North, and the market at Denver and west of there is being materially encroached upon by Michigan apples.

A Seedless Grape

(California Fruit Grower:) Raisin ples are said to be a toothsome luxury introduced by the good house-wives of the raisin belt. If we only had a seedless Muscat grape there would still be millions in the raisin business in spite of heavy production and low tariff. Why would it not be a wise move for the State Horticultural Society to offer a prize of say $500 for the production of a seedless Muscat grape? This would stimulate experiments which might result in the propagation of such a fruit, whose value would be inestimable. To be sure, we have already the Sultana and Thompson's seedless grapes,, but for an all argund raisin neither of these excellent varieties is likely to take the place of the Muscat of Alexandria. It is therefore of the greatest importance to breed seedless Muscat grape there would still of the greatest importance to breed some of the seeds out of our best raisin grapes, and if a prize of even ten times the amount named would bring about the result it would be money in our pockets. Let us try it.

Horticultural Notes.

An old fruit tree may sometimes be renewed so as to bear for years by cutting it back severely, giving good cultivation, and applying fertilizers very season N. B. Smith informs the Venturian that he lately picked 1594 pounds of apples from two trees in his orchard near Ventura near ventura.

It is alleged that the potato crop of Ireland is a large one this year, and that if need be, the tubers can be lated down in New York at a cost of 65 to 70 cents per bushel.

PESTS AND DISEASES.

Horticulturists who find new or unknown insect pests on their bees or plants are in vited to send specimen by mail, to THE TIMES, addressed by the Agricultural Ed-itor. In an early issue after receipt of specimens their true character will be described, with instructions as to the best method of treatment.]

The Black Scale Parasite. (California Fruit-grower:) We are ad-ised by Secretary Lelong of the State Board of Horticulture that several hundred colonies of the black scale parasite have been distributed from Mr. Cooper's orchards near Santa Barbara. The distribution was made under direction of Prof. Alexander Craw, entomologist of the board. Applications are pouring in from many parts of the State, and a great many colonies will finally be distributed. The outlook is now that this parasite will prove a virtual exterminator of the black scale, according to the views of Mr. Lelong, and its rapid propagation in the orchards of Mr. Cooper has been phenomenal. From a few insects deposited among his olive trees last May apparently millions have sprung, and the trees, which were sorely infested with black scale, have been entirely cleaned.

Some further experiment will no doubt be found necessary to learn how this valuable insect will survive the winter, but it appears now to combine all the virtues needed in sected. Board of Horticulture that several hunwinter, but it appears now to all the virtues needed in a most

poses, on which subject he will report

Ensilage for Fattening Stock. Ensilage (American Cultivator:) everything else that is good, has limitations. If its advocates do not recognize these limitations they must inevitably do the cause they favor more harm than good. We are moved to write this by seeing what was meant to be a strong indorsement of ensilage for fattening steers for beef written in the Live Stock Report of Chicago by Prof. Thomas Shaw, lafe of the Canadian Ex-periment Station. Prof. Shaw has done excellent work and is a careful observer, so careful, indeed, that his reort presents facts as the result of ex-riment which show that ensilage fed to fattening steers needs to be given with great caution. Two animals out of six experimented with died. Prof. Shaw argues that this is due to feeding ensilage without other dry feed than ensilage without other dry feed than meal. That is probably true. But there must be always a doubt whether the proportion of dry feed with ensil-age is just right. To doubt in such case is to condemn steers fed with roots, corn meal and hay, which were not off their feed as those fed with ensalage often were, and none of them died while being experimented with. Prof. Shaw. therefore, properly concludes that roots as green feed are safer for fattening stock than is ensilage.

The fattening steer or cow naturally requires a very different feed than does the cow that is giving milk. Succu-lence for the milch cow is all important. All the water she receives drinking has three outlets, breathing, urinination and through the milk glands. This is one reason why a cow. giving milk may eat and drink vora-ciously without injury, while a less quantity of either feed or drink given to fattening animals sets them "off their feed," and produces serious if not dangerous disturbance with their digestive apparatus. Every farmer knows that as stock becomes very fat the amount of water it will drink is gradually lessened. Pumpkins or roots or a small amount of ensilage will either one supply to a very fat animal all the water it requires. The experimenters with ensilage for fattening have made it too large apro portion of food. To give the nutrition that the fattening animal requires, coupled with a large amount of water, disregards the natural condi-tions of any animal that is excessively fat. fat. Very fleshy people are usually small drinkers, and are not apt to drink at all until their meal is concluded. Thus the gastric juices mix with the food, and digest it more perfectly than they can when diluted with excessive amounts of water.

Where does the water come from to supply natural waste? Very largely it comes from drawing on the water com-pounds of fat, and leaving the fat with little or no water in its place. This is the process which feeders call "hardening" the fat. It is often accomplished in feeding hogs by a diet of corn or corn meal. The very fat animal will drink very little in cold weather. It will urinate very little and perspire very little moisture from breath or or skin. But it will be feverish and unheathy, and if whole corn feeding is continued too long the animal will sicken and die. Its flesh, anyway, is less wholesome than that which has been fattened more reasonably, though some who do not understand the philosophy of this excessively-hardened pork or beef like it because it does not waste so much in cooking as does meat that is made from animals fed wholesomely and healthfully. We believe therefore that there is a place for ensilage in small amounts for fattening stock that will eat it, pro-vided its limitations are understood. Just enough should be given to keep the grain and meal from caking in the stomach. It should also be fed with some clover hay to keep the animal from taking an excessive amount of moisture. It should always be remembered that very little water in any form is needed by fattening animals. If they have to take it at all by drinking they will drink too little and be feverish and unhealthy. Roots or ensilage will, either one, furnish the moisture required in much more palatable form With either of these, and especially with ensilage, great care must be taken not to feed too much. Roots are possi-bly harder to digest than is ensilage. With the latter the first step towards digestion is completed in the silo. But this may not be a disadvantage for roots. The muscles in the stomach need to be exercised in order to give tone to the whole system. They certainly get more exercise from feeding roots than they do from feeding the same amount of ensilage. It all depends on the croumstances. If the digestion is already vigorous give it more work to do. If not vigorous enough feed small amounts of ensilage and help nature until the strengh of the digestive organs is restored.

POULTRY

Poultry-raising offers great inducements to industrious men of moderate means. Poultry does well here, when given the same attention which it receives in the East. Hundreds of farm ers in Southern California have lived mainly on the product of their poultry yards while their orchards were coming into bearing. The price of fresh eggs rarely falls below 25 cents a dozen, while chickens bring $6.50 a dozen. Care should be taken to provide chickens with a patch of green feed in summer. Alfalfa is excellent for this pur pose, the fowls eating it readily.

Heavy Feeders.

(Florida Agriculturist:) It is some-imes used as an objection against cer-ain hens of the flock that they are tain hens of the flock that they are heavy feeders, and add too much to the cost. Before a decision is made on this point, the poultryman should compare the cost of the food with the results obtained from the hens. Poultry Notes.

Messrs. T. W. Sheehy & Co., of Mont-comery, Minn., have entered into a con-tract to buy of surrounding farmers 100,000 pounds of poultry.

A poultry sharp writing to the Orange Farmer gives the following an-profits per head of the varieties of nual profits per head of the varieties of fowls named: Brahmas, $2.65; White Leghorns, $3.55; Brown Leghorns, $3.41; French Houdans, $2.87; Black Spanish, $2.57; S. L. Wyandottes, $1.44; Plymouth Rocks, $1.79; Select mongrels, 80 cents; turkeys, $1.55.

Last year England spent $22,000,000 for foreign eggs and poultry.

Don't start in with any questionable cows, that is, cows that are not known to be thoroughly reliable milk-yielders. A few poor cows in the stable may wreck your whole enterprise for the winter. If you are not going to use ensilage, buy your ground feed in quantities so that you can get it at the lowest prices, and not pay a high retail figure for a few hundredweight at a time. The profit is swelled as much by saving on such a point as this as in sending the milk to a good market.

English Imports of Butter.

According to the London Grocers' Review butter was imported into the United Kingdom in 1892 to the amount of 2,135,607 cwt., valued at £11,591,-183. Margarine reached 1,285,480 cwt., valued at £3,558,208.

Dairy Notes.

It does not pay to hold a fat animal until prices are higher unless the prospects are plain for a rapid rise, as there may be no further increase except at ar expense that will not be encouraging. One of the chief points of the Holsteins is their great vigor and strength of blood that transmits their character-

The Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station publishes the results of some original tests to ascertain the most profitable amount of seed potatoes to plant, and compilations of similar experiments from twelve other stations are added. The conclusion arrived at is that the potato-growers of Michigan do not use enough seed; that for ordinary distances half a potato gives a larger crop than any smaller amount, while for weak-growing varieties, or varieties with small tubers even a larger amount would be profitable. Investigation shows that an increase in to half a potato produces a marked increase, both in the total vield and in the market yield. The increased yield when a whole potato is planted, instead of half a potato, is not sufficient to cover the cost of the greater amount of (Rural New Yorker:) For upwards of fifteen years—1878 to 1893—all the chief agricultural products have been declining in price, although there have been occasional fluctuations in favorable times and places. Still the plane of prices at the close of each year has been lower than at its opening. The cost of production, however, has re-mained substantially the same, as most of the great labor-saving devices had been introduced before 1878. While been introduced before 1878. While the cost of production has not been materially reduced since 1875, according to statistics carefully compiled by the New York Sun, prices for staple farm products averaged 82 per cent. higher during the five years ending with 1875 than now. This has been especially the case as regards the five staples—corn, wheat, oats, hay and cotton, which occupy 195,000,000 out of the 206,000,000 acres now devoted to staple crops. It is highly probable, therefore, that the 30,000,000 inhabitants of the farms of the country have for the last farms of the country have for the last eight years received, on an average, no more than laborers' wages, and could,

The Decline in Prices.

BANQUET FOR PURCHASERS!

Saturday Night, November 4, 1893.

The creditors of the City of Paris Dry Goods Store have prepared for the public the grandest layout of bargains that has ever been enjoyed by the people of Los Angeles. These SPECIAL BARGAINS will be displayed on the tables and counters, and will consist of

"Remnants"

In Dress Goods, Silks. Laces, Embroideries, Trimmings, Flannels, Ginghams, Prints, Sheetings, Muslins, Ribbons, Table Linens and Crashes: It is generally conceded by everybody that at no time in the history of this city has there ever been such an enormous sale of dry goods as that of the Creditors' Sale of the City of Paris. For the past two weeks stacks upon stacks of goods have been sold, and it must necessarily follow that an immense number of SHORT CUTS called REMNANTS, accumulate during such a sale, where the prices of goods were simply slaughtered for the only one object, that of realizing CASH. Now therefore the creditors will inaugurate this

GREAT REMNANT SALE

For the purpose of clearing them out and realizing some money from them. Of course every dry goods merchant has some remnants, but none in this city can have them to give to the public at the prices that are made for this "BANQUET OF BARGAINS." Inasmuch as the Purchasing Public Have Saved About 50 Per Cent.

In making their purchases from the Creditors of the City of Paris, they (the public) will realize and appreciate the great saving of money to them in buying at this "Banquet of Remnants." All of these goods will be displayed upon the counters and tables with yardage and prices in plain figures. At the same time please remember that every article in this large establishment will be sold regardless of value or cost. The creditors will sell every dollars worth of goods purchased by them, no matter how great the loss.

Sale Begins at 7 O'clock Sharp.

SCISCICH'S WILL.

The Contest Over the Estate Commenced.

Only One Point for the Jury to Determine, Whether the Man or the Woman Died First.

The Testimony of the Doctors-A Nice Point Which Will Have to Be Settled-Court Notes.

The trial of the contest over the estate of Luca Sciscich, deceased, who killed his wife and committed suicide on July 15 last, was commenced in ear-on July 15 last, was commenced in earnest before Judge Clark and a jury in Department Two of the Superior Court yesterday morning and occupied their undivided attention all day.

Owing to the number of interests involved, and the fact that two wills had been offered for probate the case at the outset appeared to be an unusually complicated one, but before the matter came up for hearing certain stipulations had been agreed to and filed by coun-sel, and the copy of the alleged oleo-graphic will of July last had been withdrawn, so that the only question at issue for the jury to determine is as to whether Sciscich or his wife died first on the morning of the tragedy. Should her husband it naturally follows that, in due course of law, her child is en-titled to its mother's share of the es-tate, one-half. On the other hand, if expired before Sciscich, the child claim nothing, and the whole estate passes to the direct heirs of the dead man.

The first witness called was Mrs.
Mary Claffey, whose testimony was merely to the effect that she resided on Boyd street, next door to the house in which the tragedy occurred, and that on the morning of July 15 last, while standing in her back yard she heard the report of a shot and a woman's coream, closely followed by two more shots in rapid succession.

Dr. F. K. Alnsworth, the surgeon who tween Messrs. Gage and York relative to the testimony given by the witness at the coroner's inquest upon the bodies, which resulted in the witness being allowed to explain that any statement he might have made as to the lodgment of the bullet which entered the woman's chin in her brain, was merely a supposition on his part, not based upon actual knowledge.

L. R. Harris, a policeman, then took the stand and testified to having been summoned to the scene of the tragedy shortly after its occurrence. Finding that all the doors and windows of the Sciscich residence were securely fastened he effected an entrance by forcing open the back door. Upon entering the kitchen he saw the bodies of Sciscich and his wife stretched upon the floor at his feet. That of the woman lay upon the south side of the room, the head toward the west. Blood was trickling from her mouth, and a bubbling foam had formed upon her lips. Near her right shoulder was her child, whose cries he had heard before entering the house. Resting upon the woman's left foot and ankle was the shoulder of her husband, at whose feet lay a cheap pistol of thirty-eight caliber, three of the chambers of which were empty, the other two being loaded. The woman's right foot was slightly drawn up.

Detective A. S. Benson, who also visited the scene, corroberated the testimony of his brother officer in almost every particular, but added that the clothing was torn from Mrs. Sciscich's breast, as though the woman's cried the swam as torn from Mrs. Sciscich's breast, as though the woman had clutched convulsively at her dress after receiving her injuries.

The Misses May Escallier and Carrie Grant, who resided in the neighborhood, testified to having heard the shots and a woman's scream, and the remainder of the day's session was consumed in the examination of Drs. M. M. Kannon and K. D. Wise, who were called as expert witnesses to respond to certain hypothetical questions based upon the evidence, as to the probabilities of the woman surviving her husband, and at the close

Judge Smith yesterday morning rendered his decision in the case appeale by August V. Hendorf of Sycamore from Justice Bartholomew's court, ordering that the judgment of the lower court be reversed and the defendant granted a new trial. The District Attorney thereupon moved the court to dismiss the case, the evidence in the hands of the prosecution being insufficient to warrant a conviction, and the motion being granted, the defendant was ordered discharged. Hendorf was convicted in the Township Court of the embezzlement of ten milk cans which had been entrusted to his care by G. J. Stolberg of Garvanza, in December last.

Dr. F. K. Alnsworth, the surgeon who performed the autopsy upon the bodies testified to the effect that he found two gunshot wounds upon the body of Mrs. Sciscich. One of these was located about half an inch to the left of the center of the chest. The bullet which had caused this wound was traced through the fourth rib, the left lobe of the lung and the base of the heart, to the left shoulder blade, in which it had lodged. The second wound was almost in the center of the chin, the bullet in this case having passed through the tongue into the roof of the mouth pretty far back.

Upon examination of Sciscich's body but one wound was found. This was in the right ear, the ball having passed through the left temple and lodged in the temporal muscles outside the skull. It had scarcely entered the cranial cavity, and there was no rupture of the membranes of the brain, but there was a fracture at the base of the skull.

Recovered the Property.

About three weeks ago a horse and buggy belonging to a liveryman named George Brentz, was stolen in this city and driven away. The police were notified of the theft, but were unable to recover the stolen property for the reason that it had been taken out of town. Yesterday Sheriff Cline, who has been looking for the missing vehicle, discovered the horse and buggy in San Diego. They were in the possession of an innocent party, and the man who had stolen them could not be located.

WEEKLY MEETING.

Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

the State Citrus Fair in This City ness.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce met yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There were present Directors Freeman, Severance McGarvin, Klokke, Germain, Parsons, Jevne, Johnson, Forman, Jones, Hazard. President Freeman occupied the chair and was enthusitstically congratulated by the embers of the board on his safe return from the East.

Director McGarvin reported that the supervisors had referred the matter of the unused World's Fair exhibit materials to the Los Angeles County World's Fair Commission, and that faorable action was expected from the commission. .

vorable action was expected from the commission.

Director Forman reported that he and Director Graff, who were appointed a committee at the last meeting of the board to prepare resolution on the subject of the proposed abolition of the bounty on beet-suigar, had exam the law and found that if the bounty was taken off, it would apply as well to existing factories as to any new ones that might come into existence hereafter. It was moved and carried that the Senators and Representatives from California be requested to use their utmost endeavors to secure the continuance of the bounty. The secretary was instructed to telegraph this action to Senator White.

A communication was received from the secretary of the State Board of Agriculture announcing that a meeting of the State board would be held at Sacramento November 8, to decide upon the location of the citrus fairs.

A communication was read from Richard Gird of Chino, who is one of the two members of the State board from Southern California, asking the views of the Chamber of Commerce on the question of sending the Southern California Citrus Fair to San Francisco as a feature of the Southern California Midwinter exhibit. Mr. Gird stated as his views that it would be to the advantage of Southern California to have stated that unless serious objection was offered by the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations of a similar character, he would vote to have the fair sent to San Francisco.

The reading of this communication led to a lively discussion, in which the view was generally expressed by memview was generally expressed by mem bers of the board that the orange-grow ers of Southern California would not be likely to support the fair with any great degree of interest if held in the North, and that as the fair had always proved a great attraction for tourists, it would be very unwise to send it away from this section. The following resolutions, offered by Director Klokke, were passed by a unanimous vote:

Director Klokke, were passed by a unanimous vote:

Resolved, that the Southern California Citrus Fair, whenever held in the city of Los Angeles, had proved a marked success, gratifying, alike to exhibitors its patrons and the public generally That in view thereof we most earnestly request the State Board of Agriculture to again designate Los Angeles as the point for holding the next citrus fair and that we call upon our representa point for holding the next citrus fair, and that we call upon our representatives on said board, in the interest of the fruit-growers of Southern California, to use their best endeavors to secure said location.

The secretary was instructed to send copies of these resolutions to the State Board of Agriculture and to Mr. Gird and to Mr. Hardison.

The board then adjourned.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live bet-ter than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect lax-ative; effectually cleansing the system dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation.

It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidleys, Liver and Bowels without weaken ing them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

CREATED A NUISANCE.

James Lacy and His Carpet-beating Machine
Cause Trouble.

James Lacy, the carpet-beating man, was up in Justice Seaman's court yes-terday, on a charge of maintaining a nuisance. Lacy's establishment is over nuisance. Lacy's establishment is over on Alpine street, and when the beating apparatus is in motion it creates a very lively dust, which settles down upon the grounds of parties living in that neighborhood, and also sifts through the windows of the residences thereabouts with great facility. It is also said to be a source of great annoyance to the pupils of the Alpine-street school, which is near by. Lacy managed to secure a jury trial yesterday, and the case was taken up at 2 o'clock.

Replaced the Fountain. D. F. Donegan has replaced the fountain at Main and Temple streets, team of his about a year ago.

The city endeavored to collect damages for the fountain, and Mr. Donegan presented a claim for the value of his horse that was killed by the accident, he maintaining that the fountain was an obstruction in the street. Mr. Donegan states that in order to end further dispute he has replaced the broken fountain with a new one, superior in every respect to the one destroyed. It is a handsome piece of work, and an ornament to the section of the city in which it is erected. which was broken down by a runaway

A Sanitary Complaint.

A complaint, charging D. F. Done-gan with maintaining a nuisance at his corral, in the form of manure, and also in pools of stagnant water, was filed in the Police Court Thursday afternoon, and Mr. Donegan was arrested by one of the sanitary inspectors shortly after. The case was set for trial November 20. A visit to the corral yesterday disclosed the fact that the manure complained of, instead of being left on the surface of the ground, was huried under some three or four feet of dirt, where grading was being done. No pools of water were to be seen then about the corral.

HOUSE AND LOT.

A Quiet Week, but Prices Remain Firm.

Speculating on How the Banks Will Come Out.

Sale of Acreage Property on the Chino Ranch.

Californian Versus Eastern Buyers-Cahuenga Valley-The Northwestern Hills-East First Street - The Central

There is no denying the fact that the past week has been a dull one in real estate circles; in fact, some of the dealers think that it has been the dullest week which they have experienced since the beginning of the year.

PRICES ARE FIRM. In spite of this fact, it must not be supposed that any holders are giving away their property. On the contrary, prices are very firmly maintained, and real bargains are hard to find. An in-stance of this was furnished during the past week, when a deal for a $3000-house and lot on Thirtieth street fell through on account of a difference of only $50 between the buyer and seller. Agents complain that new arrivals from the East all seem to want property in the southwestern part of the city, and that they generally want to get a house and lot for $2000 in a sec-tion where the lots alone are worth

EASTERNERS AND CALIFORNIANS. It is a fact that buyers from the northern part of the State, or from any part of California, are more in favor among real estate agents than Eastern people. The former generally know Just what they want, and do not waste any unnecessary time in coming to a decision, while the new arrival from the East generally wants to be driven all over the country, and then changes his opinion with every report which he receives from interested or prejudiced persons, An agent on First street sold a house and lot at the junction of Fourth and Fifth income. a house and lot at the junction of Fourth and Fifth streets, west of Pearl, for $1200, to S. W. Moore, a man from Vacaville, who bought a business here a few days ago, and did not lose many days in purchasing a home.

THE MONEY MARKET. Money is a little easier this week, but it all comes from private sources. The savings banks are still straining every it all comes from private sources. The savings banks are still straining every nerve to get in their loans in order to meet their heavy obligations, which will fall due to depositors within a couple of months. Some of the savings banks apear to think that many of the depositors who gave them notice of withdrawal last summer, will not want their money, but, in this, they are likely to find themselves much mistaken. From all that can be learned, most of the depositors who gave notice of withdrawal will want their money, and will expect it to be paid promptly. Some estimates put the amount which will thus be withdrawn from the banks as high as $1,000,000. A majority of these depositors feel that they have a grievance, because they were forced to give six months' notice, and they will not be inclined either to let the money remain in the banks without interest or to redeposit if for a term, at 5 per cent. When they can easily get twice that interest on small loans in an open market. Much interest is felt in regard to the manner in which the savings banks, not only of Los Angeles, but of the whole country, will succeed in passing through a crisis which, in their case, has only been postponed six months, owing to the privilege which they possess under the law of demanding six months' notice from depositors whenever there is an unusual run upon them. As previously stated in The Times the savings banks of Los Angeles will probably find themselves in whenever there is an unusual run upon them. As previously stated in The Times the savings banks of Los Angeles will probably find themselves in better condition to meet their obligations than the banks of almost any other city in the country, owing to the large amount of capital which is continually being brought to this section from the East for investment.

THE CHINO RANCH SALE.

The feature of the past week was the excursion to Chino and the sale of tracts on the Chino ranch on Tuesday ing con last. A large number of people attended the sale from Los Angeles and points along the road. The total number at the auction reached about one thousand two hundred, a majority of whom were doubtless attracted by the prospect of visiting the sugar factory and enjoying a cheap trip with lunch thrown in. A number of tracts were sold. Particulars cannot be given here, as the auctioneers did not have the list of purchasers ready at this writing. They claim to have sold 600 ares, at prices ranging from $125 to $205, and that the aggregate amount of sales was about $80,000. This would make the average price paid about $135 per aere. Outsiders find it difficult to comprehend why people should rush to pay such a price as this when a considerable quantity of fair land is offering in that neighborhood in small tracts at from $40 to $60 per acre. It is, of course, true that people will often be induced to pay much more under the excitement of an auction than they would give for the same property at private sale. It is stated that most of the sales were made to men who are at present renting land from Mr. Gird, for the purpose of growing beets. The privilege of renting adjacent land for this purpose was doubtless taken into consideration by these purchasers. If the sales reported the financial stringency from which Mr. Gird is reported to have been suffering for some time past.

Residents of the Selestion Should go far to relieve the financial stringency from which Mr. Gird is reported to have been suffering for some time past.

CAHUENGA VALLEY.

Residents of the beautiful Cahuenga Valley, who have shown so much enterprise in the past in the face of much discouragement, recently held a meeting at the schoolhouse and organized an association to promote the interests an association to promote the interests and association to promote the interests. ing at the schoolhouse and organized an association to promote the interests of that section. There was much complaining talk in regard to the disgraceful condition of the roads, and the county officials came in for some strong criticism. The question of grading down and tunneling Bunker Hill at either First. Second or Third streets, was also touched upon. The people of the Cahuenga Valley are naturally very strongly in favor of getting one or more of these outlets from the city. The heavy grades have cost the Cahuenga farmers more than enough to cut down either of these hills. The Times has so often insisted upon such an improvement that it is scarcely necessary to repeat its opinion on the subject. The Bunker Hill Monument in the East is one of which the entire nation is proud, but our Bunker Hill monument in Los Angeles is something of which all our citizens should be heartily ashamed. In regard to the opening of First street, the public will have to exercise a little more patience until the case is taken out of the courts, where it now rests. where it now rests.

One of the improvements which the people of the Cahuenga Valley are anxious to secure is a boulevard over the route of what is known as the "Sunset Boulevard". Application was recently made to the City Council for power to open this boulevard within the city

THE NORTHWESTERN HILLS.

It looks at length as if that pleasant hill section in the northwest part of the city would be provided with the street railroad facilities which it so much needs. The proposition is on foot to open Castelar street and then run an electric railroad through that street, from Broadway to Bellevue avenue and along Bellevue avenue to the Sisters' Hospital, where it would be in the neighborhood of Elysian Park, and would also connect with the terminus of the Los Angeles and Pacific Railroad to Santa Monica, which, it is expected, will one day be revived.

Some of the most beautiful building sites in the city of Los Angeles, with commanding views over mountain, valley and ocean, and bracing air continually wafted from the Pacific, are to be found in the northwestern section of the city, which, to many of our citizens, is almost a terra incognita owing to the poor accommodations which are now provided. It would well repay any reader of The Times who is not acquainted with this section to take the Temple street cable car as far as Beaudry avenue and walk up the latter street as far as the reservoir with the white fence on the hill which is visible for ten miles or more around Los Angeles. From this point, which is a mile and a half within the city limits, an idea may be obtained of the possibilities of this attractive residence section—possibilities which will undoubtedly be realized as soon as rapid and frequent communication with the business center is assured. The improvement of Elysian Park, which cannot be much longer delayed, will also give a great impetus to the march of improvement on the northwestern hills.

It appears that after all the widen-ing of East First street, between Los ing of East First street, between Los Angeles and Main, is not yet an assured fact, as was generally supposed. At least, several new petitions against the improvement have been filed, among which progressive citizens are pained and astonished to note one from the Main Street Improvement Company, which, after this remarkable action, ought either to change its name or go out of business. That an association which purports to have been formed for the purpose of improving Main street, should be so blind as to oppose so absolutely necessary an improvement as this widening of East First street, is, indeed, astounding, and does not promise well for the success of their future efforts on behalf of Main street. The property-owners of North Main street may as well make up their minds that if First street is permitted to remain of its present width, between Los Angles and Main street, it will not be long before business will take a big jump to Seventh street, where drivers have a chance to pass each other without being running over by street car.

EAST OF MAIN STREET.

Those who have not taken a trip Angeles and Main, is not yet an as-

Those who have not taken a trip down through the Central-avenue secdown through the Central-avenue section for some time past would be surprised to see the amount of improvements which have gone up in that direction. On the Philbin tract alone no less than twenty-two houses have been erected since the first of January, several of them being quite handsome structures, costing several thousand dollars aplece. Considerable interest is being taken in the forthcoming sale of the new tract of eighteen acres on San Pedro street between Eighth and Eleventh, which will probably be offered about the middle of this month.

Eleventh, which will probably be of-fered about the middle of this month, not at auction, but at fixed prices. As The Times has frequently stated, lots in this part of town are selling very cheap, considering the short distance from the business center, the high lo-cation and the light, loamy soil, which is dry within twenty-four hours after a heavy rainstorm. a heavy rainstorm.

ANOTHER STREET RAILWAY. A new street railway has been projected for Boyle Heights. W. H. Workjected for Boyle Heights. W. H. Work-man and T. D. Haskins have asked for a street railway franchise to be granted for a period of fifty years, over and along the following streets: From First and Cummings streets to Sixth, to Boyle avenue, to Stephenson avenue, the motor power to be used to propel the cars upon said railway to be horses and mules, electricity or cable or electro-vapor motors. The petition was referred to the Board of Public Works.

BUILDING NOTES.

BUILDING NOTES. Building continues throughout the city with great activity. Improvements are going up on almost every street in fown, and there is no trouble in rent-ing convenient houses as soon as they

one of the chief topics of conversation in building circles during the past week has been the plumbing question, which has been fully discussed by correspondents in the columns of The Times. The Council on Monday carried out the wishes of a majority of the citizens by repealing the objectionable plumbing ordinance, in place of which a new one will be framed that will contain less objectionable features. The Times fully recognizes the necessity for a strict regulation of plumbing work. There is no doubt that hundreds of lives have been sacrificed to defective plumbing during the past seven years. There is, however, no reason why this fact should be used as a bogie man to force citizens to pay exorbitant prices for plumbing.

Pasadena appears to rival Los Angeles in business activity. A list is published of forty-seven buildings under construction in Pasadena, ranging in value from $500 to $10,000. The boom struck Pasadena very hard, and the reaction was proportionally great, but the recovery appears now to be complete. It is expected that the Burbank Theater will be ready to open by the 15th of this month.

A HEAVY SENTENCE.

A Big Chunk of Justice Dealt Out to John L When Police Justice Austin has an adulterer to deal with, and the charge is fully established, he believes that it requires but a small measure of mercy

John L. Green found this out yester-day morning, when the time arrived for passing sentence upon him in consequence of a conviction of the crime indicated, several days ago. Before the sentence was passed, M. E. C. Munday, Esq., counsel for the defense, made a plea for arrest of judgment, but the court refused to have it that way, and ordered that Green be imprisoned in the County Jail for a period of six months, and, in addition to this, pay a fine of $150.

Pasadena was honored on Friday with a visit from Mayor Rowan of Los Angeles, accompanied by several coun-cilmen and other officials of that city. The personnel of the party was made up as follows: Mayor Rowan, F. G. , president of the Council, Council-Nickell, Campbell, Munson, Pessell and Innes: City Treasurer H. J. Shoulters, Assistant City Attorney W. E. Dunn, City Engineer J. H. Dock-weiler, W J. Brodrick, vice-president of the City Water Company, and A. M. Austin, one of the city street contrac-

The visitors came to Pasadena upon invitation of J. A. Fairchild, who is laying such satisfactory pavement on Colorado street, and who has been awarded within the past few days a $60,000 street-paving job in Los Angeles. The party arrived on the II o'clock Terminal train. They were met at the station Ing job in Los Angeles. The party arrived on the 11 o'clock Terminal train. They were met at the station by Mr. Fairchild, Mayor Weed, Councilmen Cox and Clarke, Superintendent of Streets Brown, ex-Justice Rose, City Engineer Sedwick and others. An hour was devoted to an inspection of the Colorado street pavement, extending eastward from Delacy street, between Raymond avenue and Broadway. Opportunity was afforded to inspect the process of laying the asphaltum surface on the concrete base, and at the apparatus north of Colorado street, the manner of preparing the material was witnessed. The guests were unanimous in their appreciation of the good work that is being done here in the paving line, and were hearty in their approval of the process employed. It was agreed that the Colorado-street pavement is a model job, and the likelihood is that many pavements like it will be laid in Los Angeles.

Shortly after noon the visitors and numerous local guests enjoyed an elaborate lunch at Peter Stell's, which the sum of $2, is at the root of the trouble.

Mr. Rossiter, attorney for the defendant, applied for a change of venue on the ground that his client could not receive a fair and impartial trial before Justice Merriam. The justice refused to grant a change of venue. Judge Pierce of San Diego, sitting in Judge Smith's court, decided on appeal, in favor of the defendant. Judge Shaw afterward reversed this decision by granting a new trial. The pleadings were made before Judge McKinley, and as before related, His Honor decided in favor of Justice Merriam. This decision rather clears away the mists of bias and prejudice that have, to some extent, obscured Justice Merriam's official career, but the statu quo of the horse case is still somewhat in the dark.

Individuals acting by themselves cannot do this, because there ape few active business men who can afford to devote much time from their private enterprises to promote the general good, and because the efforts of an individual unaided by organized co-operation cannot be made very effective. There are many methods which might be profitably employed to induce manufacturing enterprises to embark in business here, if only they could be gone about in a systematic and methodical way, and people are ready enough to say that some organization should be made to do it, but none, or but few, seem heretofore_to have been ready or willing to devote a little time in co-operative labor in this direction. make, and as an article of dress was a costly luxury.

Nowadays, the modern Romeo smybolizes his wish to be "a glove upon that hand" by sending to the lady of his choice a box of the nicest gloves he can buy, and if he is "up to date," he will send the Repnier make, which is the latest and most correct thing in Paris, and is kept by all the leading dealers there. At the Ville de Paris, in the Potomac Block, a consignment of these gloves has just been opened, and as the new store has the exclusive sale of this make, they will doubtless receive plenty of calls.

Necessity for an Exhibit at the Midwinter Fair.

The County Cannot Afford to Be Left Out of the Great Exposition-Busy Day in the Superior Court-Notes and Personals.

It now transpires that Orange is the only county in Southern California that is likely to stand out on the propo-sition to make a grand exhibit of the sition to make a grand exhibit of the products of this southern country at the Midwinter Fair in San Francisco. So far, there has been a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, at which that body of representative citizens decided that the money necessary to take part in the erection of a Southern California building could not, without great exertion, be raised, and, perhaps, not at all; that it would be difficult to secure and maintain a creditable exhibit, and that, considering the matter, upon the whole, it would be better not to make an effort to be represented if it was not reasonably certain that the representation would be a creditable one. If this is the condition of affairs, it is unfortunate, to say the least. Orange county cannot afford to be left out in the great Midwinter Exhibit. There is no county in the State that can make a more elaborate or varied exhibit of its resources, according to its size, and the value of its taxable property, than can Orange county, and it should most certainly improve this golden opportunity of exhibiting to the thousands of visitors and home-seekers who will represented if it was not reasonably of visitors and home-seekers who will attend the fair, the varied resources of the "little joker" county in this great State. State.

Some of the residents of the county claim that Los Angeles will get all the benefit of an exhibit at the fair, and, therefore, should stand all the expense. While it is is true that the greater number of people traveling and, therefore, should stand all the expense. While it is is true that the greater number of people traveling south from San Francisco of from the Eastern States, will naturally enough make Los Angeles their objective point, it is equally true that the great majority of these new arrivals ultimately settle in the rural communities, where the country is most rapidly developing. While it is a fact that the large cities get the first and temporary benefit, in the way of money expended for board, lodging and sight-seeing by the visitors, the rural communities get the substantial—the permanent benefit when the new arrivals take up their permanent residence and begin making a home beneath their own vine and fig tree. The several communities, therefore, should not be backward in assisting, with willing hands, in the preparation of a grand exhibit of Southern California resources at the Midwinter Fair. Orange county cannot afford to be left out of this exposition.

SUPERIOR COLRT NOTES.

SUPERIOR COLET NOTES Thursday being probate day, various cases were taken up and disposed of as follows:

as follows:

Dempster Mill Manufacturing Company vs. R. S. Cook et al.; motion of defendant, Cook, to set aside default, was called up, and was objected to on the grounds of want of service of notice; objection sustained.

J. L. Holley vs. County of Orange et al.; demurrer to complaint continued to November 17, 1893.

In re estates of Jeremiah A. Grinnell, Marcos Yorba, Bernardo Yphar and Frederick Moritz Verner, deceased; citations directed to sue requiring the administrator to show cause, Koenig vs. Schindler et al., and Amerige vs. Lacy at al., demurrers to complaints continued to November 17, 1893.

Tom Morris has returned from the San Bernardino races. His pacing mare 'Jingler,' won the pacing race in which she entered, the best time being 2:184's. Nutford, another Orange county horse, took second money quite handily.

Jo Codori shot and killed a fine specimen of the black-shouldered kite Thursday, while out hunting, just south of town. The bird is seldom seen in this county, and, therefore, is considered very rare. It has been turned over to a taxidermist to be mounted.

The Orange county hen is the object of a great deal of censure just now. Eggs are from 30 to 35 cents per dozen, and seem to be as scarce as hen's teeth at that high price. The giddy old cacklers, to all appearances, have gone out of business on account of the stringency in the money market, or, a systematic boycott, and, as a result, the demand for the product far exceeds the supply.

Green peas are beginning to make their appearance in the local vegetable market. In another week shipments

Green peas are beginning to make their appearance in the local vegetable market. In another week shipments north and east will begin. Farmers in this county have planted more extensively than usual of peas this winter, owing to the fact that a great many Eastern people are expected in San Francisco and throughout the State during the Midwinter Fair. Eastern people are known to have a great failing for green peas in midwinter when they come to California, and for this reason, California farmers are preparing to furnish them with a sufficiency of the vegetable.

Maj. E. L. Stern, the recently-elected police commissioner, said yesterday, in reference to the new rules of the commission governing saloons, that he had had but little time to examine them. They were worded somewhat differently, however, from what he had supposed. As he remembered it, the discussion over the adoption of such rules was as to whether women should be permitted to enter shoons. The rules as adopted did not appear to contain any reference to that subject. As to what course he would favor in the enforcement of these rules, he said that until he had had an opportunity to further consider the matter, he did not feel prepared to make any statement, further than what he had made at the last meeting of the board.

After doctoring with two doctors for three years, more or less, I flually made up my mind to try your CUTICUEA REMEDIES, with result entirely satisfactory to me. After using two sets I amenticely cured. I have recommended your remedies to several persons, and they all tell me they are No. 1. Our druggist is doing a nice business in CUTICUEA REMEDIES, since my cure. I have given him the privilege of using my name as proof of their efficiency. I enclose my portrait.

Photographer, Mt. Horeb, Wis. third streets, and rang the bell.

The Chinese cook responded to the call, and as soon as he had opened the door, told the visitor that the "folks" were not at home. The man then asked: "Well, who is there here?" to which the Chinaman replied, that the

which the Chinaman replied, that the mirrse girl was upstairs.

"She will do; just tell her to come down," the man said, and the cook turned and went up stairs. Hardly had he reached the landing before the man at the door made a break, shot into the parlor, seized a $90 clock, and made for the streak as hard as he could made for the street as hard as he could

The Chinaman was just returning from calling the girl, and he caught sight of the thief as he was making off, and, at once pursued him. The nurse girl and the neighbors joined in the chase, which became so exciting that the pursued flung the clock under a hedge, and continued his flight at hedge, and continued his flight at ouble-quick pace. The Chinaman double-quick pace. The Chinaman proved that his sprinting powers were well developed also, for he soon overhauled his man, and held him until help arrived, when the fellow was taken to the City Prison.

help arrived, when the fellow was taken to the City Prison.

On the way up in the patrol wagon he begged the officer to book him on a charge of simple petty larceny, saying that he would plead guilty to that, if allowed to do so. He exhibited his further knowledge of the "ropes" by saying that he would be obliged to hire counsel if charged with burglary, and that he had no means to do so. The police believe that he is a new man in town, but they agree that he is one of the most finished "daylight" operators that they have ever happened across. Detective Marsh visited the premises where the theft was attempted, and found the facts as above stated.

When interviewed by the reporter and the detective in the afternoon in his cell, the man said that his name was Frank Ross. He maintained that he was entirely innocent of any wrong intention, giving the very slim excuse of intoxication as cause for his bold act. He wanted to see an attorney, however, before his trial came up.

State taxation per capita is reported as follows: North Carolina, 58 cents; Michigan, $1.52; Iowa, $1.85; Maryland, $1.92; California, $6.81. California is a prosperous State, but should its citizens be called upon to pay as much as the other four States combined for the blessings which they enjoy? There seems to be an opening for a little economy here.
